Five years ago, Robert Crook approached Robertson Banking Company with the intention of finding a customer-oriented bank. Initially, finding such a bank seemed impossible, but as he got to know the employees, he realized this was the ideal bank for him. “Robertson Banking Company is a bank you can trust,” Crook said. “They keep their commitments, and I recommend them to anyone seeking a commercial real estate loan.”

Following the successful closure of the initial deal, Crook chose to work with the bank on numerous other deals. “They know the market, they have good pricing, and they have good service,” Crook said. “They are easy to work with, especially Whit Bird who knows the ins and outs of banking.”
